Local Author Holds Book Launch Party at the MK Nature Center

Boise, Idaho - Eva Marosvari will use proceeds from her middle-grade novel Fish-Boy and the Dip Net Indians to help a family save their home from foreclosure. She will be celebrating the launch of her book at the MK Nature Center since it is based on salmon fishing season in Riggins, Idaho. Festivities include nature tours, a fish printing (gyotaku) craft project, speakers, refreshments, and of course a book signing on Saturday January 31 from 1-5.

Fish-Boy and the Dip Net Indians is a heartwarming adventure story about a young boy who overcomes his fear of Indians, bears, rattlesnakes and... monsters. A true 'coming of age' story, nine-year-old Sam learns the meaning of friendship.

Books will be available for purchase or you can buy a copy online and bring it in to have it signed. There will also be a raffle basket to help raise funds for the nature center. For more information, see www.fishboyandthedipnetindians.com.
